LOCATION.

The Law School is held in the City of Portland, which offers to the student of law many advantages not possessed by other cities. The District and Circuit Courts of the United States hold regular sessions, the five departments of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the Fourth Judicial District, the County Court of Multnomah County, and the Municipal and Justices' Courts are constantly in session, where questions touching every branch of the law are daily heard and determined.

The lectures are delivered in the Chamber of Commerce in the heart of the City of Portland. Each lecture with the accompanying recitation lasts about one hour. Lectures in the first year are on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7:15 P. M.; in the second year, on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays at 7:15 P. M.; and in the third year on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 8:30 P. M.

The twenty-eighth session opens Monday, September 18, 1911.

The fact that the lectures and other exercises take place in the evening enables bank and government clerks and other persons engaged during the day to avail themselves of the privileges of the school.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

All persons, irrespective of sex, are allowed to matriculate in the Law School. Applicants for admission to the first year class must be at least eighteen years of age, to the second year class at least nineteen years of age, and to the third year class at least twenty years of age.

Graduates of universities or colleges, and students who have completed an academical or high school course, are admitted to the Department without examination as to preliminary requirements, and may become candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws. In order to be entitled to this privilege, however, the applicant should present to the Secretary of the Department evidence that he comes within some one of the classes named, which should be in the form of a diploma or certificate, or a certified copy thereof.

All other applicants will be required to present satisfactory evidence that they are prepared to pursue the work with advantage to themselves and without disadvantage to the school.

At the close of each year students are examined on the subjects pursued during the year, and are not permitted to enter the next higher class unless they attain a general average of seventy per cent. on all subjects included in the year.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction extends through a period of three years of nine months each.

The aim of this school is to give its students as thorough and practical an education in the principles of the law as the length of the course will permit, and to prepare them for practice in the courts of any state, but particularly in those of Oregon. Recognizing the advantages and disadvantages of the exclusive use of either the lecture or the case method, the faculty endeavors so to combine lectures with the use of text books, and especially with the careful study of illustrative cases as most thoroughly to qualify the student for the active work of his profession.

The lectures are delivered in the evening, and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the best law offices of the city, where they may have an opportunity of familiarizing themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The thoroughness of the instruction imparted is sufficiently attested by the fact that of the 428 graduates of the Department of Law only three have thus far failed to pass the State Bar examination. The more difficult test of actual practice has been met with almost equal success by the graduates, an unusual number of whom are admitted to be leaders at the junior bar and have held important official positions in various parts of Oregon.

The following is a statement of the subjects upon which instruction is given, with the time devoted to each subject:

LIBRARY.

The only books with which students are required to provide themselves are those used for purposes of text-book instruction, but they are advised to secure a copy of Belinsrtuction, but they are advised to secure a copy of Lord's Oregon Laws in three volumes, as frequent reference is made to the Oregon Statutes in connection with the instruction on all the subjects of the course.

Students in the Law School are allowed to use the Multnomah Law Library in the County Court House, free of charge. This library contains the reports of every state in the Union, the reports of the federal courts, and numerous English reports, together with an extensive collection of treatises and text-books, both English and American, and copies of the statutes of the several states and of the United States. New reports, as they are issued, are added, as are new text-books and treatises of merit.

TEXT BOOKS.

DEGREE.

The Degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred upon such students as pursue the full course of three years and pass the required written examinations. Students who have attended another approved law school for a period equal to one or two years of the course of this school of law will be given due credit for such attendance.

The diploma given to graduates is that of the University of Oregon, signed by the President and Secretary of the Board of Regents, the President of the University and the Dean of the Law Department.

FEES.

The tuition fee is sixty dollars for the first, seventy-five dollars for the second, and seventy-five dollars for the third year. The tuition is payable in advance at the office of the Secretary in three equal installments on or before the first day of each term. Admission to membership in the classes is not permitted until the fees are paid. Regular attendance is required, and no deduction will be made on account of absence or failure to begin at the opening of the year. The final examination and diploma fee upon completing the whole course of study, is ten dollars, payable on or before May 1st, 1911.

For students taking special courses the fee will be at the rate of one dollar per lecture, payable in advance. Special students may, on application to the Secretary, receive an official certificate of attendance, showing the subject or subjects pursued, and the degree of attainment.

The right to change any or all announcements in this catalogue, except as to fees, is hereby reserved.

Applications for admission and requests for further information will be addressed to

ADMISSION TO THE BAR.

For the information of students the following rules of the Supreme Court of Oregon are published

Rule 30. The second day of the October term, and such other time at any term as may be ordered, on the written application of five or more persons desiring admission, shall be set apart as the time when persons desiring admission to practice as attorneys in the courts of this state may appear and present their applications, who having been examined in open court touching their qualifications for admission and found qualified, may be admitted to practice as attorneys and counselors at law in the several courts of this state. Applications for admission can only be made to this court.

Rule 31. Applicants for admission as attorneys shall be examined by justices of the supreme court, or under their direction, and only such shall be admitted as shall be properly learned in the common law, the law merchant, the principles of equity jurisprudence, the history and constitutional law of England prior to the Declaration of Independence, the history and constitutional law of the United States, the statute and constitutional law of this state, and the practical administration of the law. Such examination shall be conducted in writing, or partly in writing and partly orally, as the court may direct.

Rule 32. Each applicant for admission must produce the certificate of some attorney in good standing in this court that such applicant, if a graduate of some college or other literary institution authorized to confer degrees, has read law for two years, or if not a graduate at least three years; and that such applicant has the requisite learning and ability. There shall also be presented the certificate of two attorneys of like standing to the effect that such applicant is a man of good moral character. In case, however, the applicant produces a diploma from any regular law school or shows that he is a graduate thereof, then the certificate of his having read the time above indicated shall be dispensed with. The applicant shall also file his own affidavit that he is a citizen of the United States and of this state, or has complied with the statutory requirements in that connection, is over the age of twenty-one years, and has read the books, a list of which is included in his affidavit.
